

Jones to the penitentiary.
Attorney General Wickersham

From his army of detectives and spies, which he controlled then, as now, Burns had one of his stool pigeons play on Jones' sympathies. Jones believed the stool pigeon was also under indictment, and discussed the trial with the attorney who conveyed this information to Burns, and received compensation from the government under the name of George Edwards. In his report to President Taft this high-handed procedure,

"In this connection I would say that Mr. Burns has been given the fullest opportunity to make a statement. The cardpoint attorney went to New York City to interview witnesses. The attorney, however, could not obtain a statement from him.

President Nixon's pardons, however, was not convicted by "frame-up" engines engineered by an administrator. Attorney General John N. Mitchell, and on whom the attorney general now depends for confidence, is a man of integrity at annals the federal constitution.

REAL FACTS ASSURED; WILL PROBE INDUSTRY

Washington, Sept. 16.—The senate has approved the Borah bill to investigate the coal industry. The issue has also passed a fact-finding bill, but it excludes coal miners and coal owners from the commission, as favored by President Nixon. But objection by the miners.

The United Mine Workers insist agitation for a fact-finding commission and for months have been pressing for a collection of

The Borah bill provides that the commission shall report on "the advisability or wisdom of nationalizing the coal industry." An at-

The provision to authorize the commission to investigate "the feasibility or necessity of government regulation of the coal industry" was also retained. In opposition to the bill, Sen. Myers of Montana orated with the usual "view-with-alarm" speech. If Congress were to commission to ascertain coal facts, socialism will be encouraged. By attributing a Marxist character to the bill, he reminded his colleagues that a radical recently "made a desperate effort, by proxy, to get control of the state of Montana and its government."

The senate ignored the statement. No effort was made to narrow escape Montana oil of being captured by one man, who assigned a proxy to do the capturing.

ATTACK MATERNITY LAW.

Washington, Sept. 15.—The state of Massachusetts has filed suit in the United States supreme court against the federal maternity law, known as the Calkins act.

Under the law the federal government appropriates an amount equal to what the state would have to pay for the dissemination of information on maternity and the care of infants.

The suit is based on the provision in the act that states to accept the act. In their plea that the law be declared unconstitutional, Massachusetts' attorneys claim that violates states' rights.

"If Massachusetts had accepted the act," the petition says, "the return to it thereunder would be an one-half cent per child born to its citizens, while if Massachusetts should not accept, its citizens would be taxed for the

"...would be taken in order to carry the act into effect in other states."

WANTS SQUARE DEAL.

Washington, Sept. 16.—The new senator from Pennsylvania, the Hon. David A. Reed, arose in his seat last week and inquired of one of his colleagues:

"Does the senator think that it is fair or American or constitutional to find a man guilty in that way without notice to him and without hearing his proof or his argument?"

The Pennsylvania senator was not discussing the use of the injunction in labor disputes. He was objecting to a bill that was intended

This is the second speech Senator eed has made. His first speech

JUDGE STOPS PICKETING.
Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 16.— Chancellor Garvin has issued an injunction against picketing the plant of the Miller manufacturing company or displaying strike notices in a vicinity of the plant.
The order means that this injunction order is doing his utmost assist the company in its fight to establish the anti-union shop. The company's present attitude is the result of a broken agreement with the United Garment Workers.

WIN UNION SHOP.

New York, Sept. 16.—Bonnas Em-oldery Workers' union No. 66 won general strike and secured a ten-shop agreement. This union affiliated with the International dies' Garment Workers' union.
